About the Issue

The editorial board in the ALUSTATH Journal seeks to upgrade the impact of the journal (Impact Factor) in preparation for the entry of the database of academic, scientific and global conclusion. Accordingly, the ALUSTATH Journal publishes research that is characterized by scientific sobriety, cognitive value, language safety, accuracy of documentation, and according to the new conditions published in this number and announced on its website. For the purpose of deepening the scientific originality of research and studies published in the journal, the editorial board is incited to send the research outcomes submitted to it to professors and experts with competence from inside and outside Iraq and in the field of precise jurisdiction to evaluate it scientifically and linguistically before the approval of its publication in the journal.

The ALUSTATH Journal for Human and Social Sciences has received the attention of researchers from different countries due to its interest in choosing important scientific research and in various humanitarian disciplines.

The Editorial Board wants to note that the current number is issued in numbering (Volume 63- Issue 2), which includes a valuable and important set of research in all human sciences.

The editorial board in the journal calls from professors, researchers and graduate students in universities and scientific institutions inside and outside Iraq to interact with them through its website on the Internet and its email to express their notes and submit their proposals that they see as it can have a good return on developing the journal and upgrading with it.
